
DOGS, OF COURSE, have long been known as man's best friend and all that but, as far as we know, their honored status has not entitled them to be on the guest list for any wedding.

That is any wedding that we have attended or known about.

We hurriedly add, before anyone else does, that undoubtedly in some instances dogs may have been preferred to people as guests.

And in some cases, they undoubtedly would have conducted themselves with more propriety, decorum and circumspect than a few human guests we have seen in action at receptions.

What we are saying is that no dog of our personal acquaintance has ever been invited to a wedding.

We imagine, however, that when an invitation has come addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe and family" there might have been instances when the "family might have wondered as to whether the invitation included "Fido."

But it is sort of understood that weddings are something just for humans.

None of the dogs we have known ever protested being left out of a wedding party.

And, as far as we know, in this day and age when organized protests are common, they have not picketed any wedding or have they howled that they are being discriminated against.

It's really no big thing. It is something that is more or less taken for granted and it hasn't been necessary to specify that one's dog should stay at home.

Or so we thought until a friend of course showed us a rather unique wedding invitation he had received.

In one corner of the invitation was the notation: "No dogs allowed."

Dog gone it.

That seems like putting on the dog.

A CRACKDOWN ON VIOlators of traffic laws by bicyclists is planned by the Campbell police next month.

But prior to the crackdown, efforts will be made to acquaint the bike riders with the various traffic laws that are violated most frequently.

Last week editorially we commended the police for this needed campaign and cited examples of the most frequent violations such as riding on the wrong side of the street, etc.

In the past, few bicylists have been cited by the police or have they ever had to appear in court. But it may be different in the future.

Bicycling has become increasingly popular in recent years among the adults and thus the education and crackdown will apply to adults as well as the youngsters who pedal their way to school.

George Lewis, a long-time Campbell school teacher, who has pedaled to his school for about 10 years, cited for us an example of how the thinking with respect to bike riding has changed in a decade.

He recalled that when he first started riding his bike to school, one of the students suggested that it wasn't very dignified for a teacher to be riding a bike to school.

We betcha the kids don't say that today, as they compete with the adults for the safe traffic lanes.

Incidentally, Lewis, as a "pro" in this bike riding business, has a number of ideas that could prove valuable for any bike safety program that might be instituted.

We suggested that he pass them onto Police Chief Don Burr and his crew.

By the way, George dons an orange jacket when he goes pedaling to and from school.

It makes him more visible to the motorists.

We think the motorist should also be involved in any bike safety program.

It would help if the motor-

MOST NURSES RESIGN

Internal turmoil causes concern at Campbell Community Hospital

by George Vierhus

That the "confused and chaotic" condition that has existed at Campbell Community Hospital, for the past several weeks, could prove detrimental to patient care is the contention of a number of doctors and nurses who have long been associated with the local institution.

According to spokesman for the nurses, 23 members of the nursing staff of 31 on Monday have submitted their resignations and have given their two weeks notices.

Last Friday the services of Mrs. Kathleen McGaw, nursing director, and Mrs. Evelyn M. Renna, surgical nursing supervisor, were terminated by the new management at the hospital. In addition, Mrs. Mary Barr, acting nursing director, resigned that day after completing her shift.

IN PROTEST

The nurses indicated their resignations were in protest against what they claim are "increased liability in working conditions."

But prior to the upheaval in the nurses' ranks, the current "unrest" at the hospital broke into the open when a lawsuit was filed in Superior Court by the former chief of staff, Dr. Richard C. Rhodes, on behalf of the former active members, charging that "confusion" currently reigns at the hospital that threatens the quality of patient care.

The suit, which was still pending in court at press time, also asks for a full disclosure as to what changes in ownership have taken place and why procedures have been changed in the selection of staff members.

NO CONTACT

In the meantime, efforts by The Press to contact any of the representatives of the new "management" to explain what has been taking place have been unsuccessful.

Office personnel explained, however, that Tom Stone was representing the new management and that James Brock was the new administrator. Brock replaced Jerry Schutz who was named administrator of the local hospital when it was purchased in January, 1972, from a group of local individuals who were operating it as a non-profit institution.

It was announced in January that Pacific Community Hospital, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Community Psychiatric Corporation, a nationwide firm, listed on the exchange, had purchased the hospital and would continue to operate as a general hospital. The announcement was made by Robert L. Green representing the corporate purchasers.

The services of Schutz have also been terminated since the apparent new regime has taken over.

OWNERSHIP?

But as of this week, there has been no official announcement as to what is the status of ownership at the present time.

In answer to questions by The Press, office personnel at the hospital, acting apparently on instructions only reported that there "has been a change in management" and added that "any staff members resigning will be replaced and care at the hospital will continue."

MRS. KATHLEEN McGAW
--former head nurse

A secretary, however, said that they could not, under instructions, reveal the name of the new chief-of-staff or other personnel.

The secretary also added that "she was not permitted to classify the status of Tom Stone."

The "confusion" at the hospital began, according to the protesting doctors and nurses, when in the latter part of August, the staff was informed that there had been a change in management and/or ownership.

According to a spokesman for the doctors, the new "management" indicated that they wanted certain doctors to be added to the staff. It was pointed out that a certain procedure for staff additions had to be followed as set up in the by-laws.

TERMINATED

Subsequently, on the letterhead of Pacific Community Hospital, all the staff members, approximately 200, were notified that their privileges had been terminated. But that they could re-apply.

The "former" 35 active staff members then sought legal counsel and subsequently filed suit for disclosure which is now pending.

A spokesman for the nurses pointed out that the nursing staff at the hospital has been highly rated and many of them had been at the hospital for a

JUST ONE TEAM--More than 400 volunteers, under the direction of Mrs. Jeanette Watson, general chairman, are working on preparations for St. Lucy's silver jubilee celebration (Oct. 15-22). The 25th anniversary of establishment of St. Lucy's as a parish will be marked by a week-long series of events, starting with a Thanksgiving Mass at noon on Sunday, October 15, at which Archbishop Joseph McGuckin will be present.

A barbecue-fiesta on Saturday-Sunday (October 21-22) will conclude the activities. There will be an original revue entitled "This is Your Life, St. Lucy's" presented on Friday night, plus events on other nights during the week.

Above one of the parish "teams" prepares the 2500 invitations that will be sent out this week to parishioners and civic leaders, inviting them to the week's activities. EXCEPT FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Fall enrollment drops in schools

Enrollment is down from last year in the elementary school districts that serve the area but the Campbell Union High School District showed an increase of 32 for the eight schools.

The decline in enrollment had been anticipated by the school people. However, in the Campbell Union (elementary) District, the decrease was more (approximately 300) than had been projected for budget purposes.

Superintendent Jim D'Avis said he had been overly optimistic with respect to the completion date of new homes that are being built in the area. He indicated that the decrease would mean a considerable loss to the district in state funds that are based on the average daily attendance. Closing enrollment in June was 10,317.

In the Campbell elementary district it had been estimated that enrollment would be approximately 10,500. But, as of Monday of this week, it had reached only 10,182 from an opening day count of 9,969. By Friday it had risen to 10,127. District officials noted that the decrease had one advantage as it meant class sizes could be somewhat reduced.

A total enrollment for the eight high schools in the Campbell Union High School District was 14,607 plus 45 in Williams. District officials projected no change in enrollment and the opening figure was 32 more than last year.

The enrollment breakdown by high school: Campbell, 1778; Camden, 1650; Del Mar, 1714; Blackford, 1686; Leigh, 2420; Westmont, 1740; Branham, 2054; Prospect, 1565.

In Moreland, the enrollment this year had reached 8026 on Monday from the opening day figure of 7933 and a closing enrollment of 8256. District officials had anticipated an enrollment of 8033 for the 14 elementary and two junior highs in the district.

Moreland officials said that one of the odd factors was that the opening day enrollment for kindergarten classes this year was 767, the exact figure of the previous year. They noted that 900 students were graduated last year from the two junior highs.

In the Cambrian district which also serves part of the Campbell area, the opening day enrollment was 4545 and had gone to 4637 this week. It was estimated that it was down about 8% from last year.

MERVYN'S DEPARTMENT STORE

Planning Commission stresses landscaping for new center

Landscaping was emphasized when the Planning Commission on Monday night unanimously approved plans for a 62,000 square foot Mervyn's Department Store at 950 W. Hamilton near F[illegible]'s Market.

Both the architect for the project, James W. Foug, who presented the plans, and Mervin G. Morris, president of Mervyn's, agreed with the opinions expressed by the commissioners that attractive landscaping of the eight-acre parcel on which the department store will be located was of prime importance.

They indicated that they would cooperate to the fullest with the city in the treatment of shrubs and trees in the strip around the property. Three streets, Hamilton, Marathon and Gale are involved.

To further emphasize the landscaping phase, the Commission, in approving the plans with the conditions attached which will be forwarded to the City Council, recommended that the Council direct that the landscape plan be referred to the Planning Commission before the building permit is issued. In addition, the Commission recommended that the Council consider modifying the sidewalk requirements for the property which are regulated by ordinance. It was felt that the sidewalk and landscaping should be coordinated.

In other actions, the Commission approved the zone change (from M-2-S to commercial P-D) for the Sunsweet

Signs versus trees

Merchants in the Campbell Shopping Center (Winchester at Latimer) want eight trees along Winchester Blvd. removed. The trees were planted by the city as part of the city street tree program in 1970.

But the merchants will have to get permission from the City Council to take them out.

That's what the Parks and Recreation Commission ruled last week on a tree removal request submitted by the Campbell Center Merchants Association.

The eight trees specified are part of the city's overall street tree program that has placed approximately 250 trees (at a cost of $60 per tree) along the streets of the town.

In a covering letter with the tree removal application, Lincoln Hutton, president of the Campbell Center Merchants Association, claimed that they had inherited the situation and wanted to "apol-

ASK CITY TO TAKE 'EM OUT

Editorial

Signs in town

Regulation of the type of signs that appear in the city is absolutely necessary. Most all of us will admit that there is a need for some sort of control on the size and type.

The city's sign ordinance has been in effect for a number of years and, in the main, has quite satisfactorily served as a control measure.

The sign ordinance, incidentally, was adopted after considerable study on the part of the city staff with the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce.

It marked the first time that the Chamber of Commerce had cooperated with the city in the hammering out of a control measure that affected the businesses in town. The CofC has cooperated in a number of similar matters since then.

A committee of the CofC worked closely with city officials in drafting the ordinance and we recall that at the time of its adoption the CofC was officially commended by the City Council for this civic service.

There were a number of compromises in the ordinance, most of them at the insistence of the Chamber of Commerce which represented the business community.

The point we are making is simply that this city's sign ordinance was not arbitrarily put into effect by the city council without giving consideration to the effect it would have on businesses within the city.

The City Council, after being faced with some difficult decisions recently, has directed that the sign ordinance should be reviewed, as well as the city policy against signs facing freeways.

We see nothing wrong in this review. In fact, we hold that most city ordinances should be reviewed periodically.

As years go by perspectives change and conditions change.

We hold that a sign ordinance should not be so restrictive that there is no flexibility in it.

We suggest then that a study on modifications of the present sign ordinance should include input from the business community as was done when the ordinance was established.

One area in the control of signs that will always prove controversial is in the realm of what constitutes attractiveness.

It has long been an established fact that esthetics is an individual matter and what may appear attractive to one person could appear just the opposite to another.

Therefore, there will always be problems in this particular phase. We submit that if those who will be responsible for modifying or expanding the present sign ordinance try to define what is an attractive sign their work will be cut out for them.

In a related sign matter, in a letter to the editor this week, a party calls attention to a suggestion that has been made to remove a tree on the Methodist Church property in order that the sign of the adjacent shopping center be made more visible. The writer was quite upset at the idea. And rightly so.

We recognize, of course, that business people are always concerned about getting more business and they must take steps to bring people into their stores. They need signs to advertise their wares and whereabouts almost as much as they need to advertise in the newspaper.

But to remove a tree in order to make a sign more visible seems to us is the wrong way to go about building good will or community and customer relations.

Today trees are pretty hard to come by.

And no matter how "attractive" a sign may be or how many parking spaces are made available, in our opinion, there are no black-topped parking lots or attractive store fronts that can compare with mother nature's handiwork of a tree.

Signs for shopping centers obviously are important. But proper landscaping is even more important, in our opinion.

As a matter of fact, most planning commissions today are putting as much stress on landscaping as on any other single phase in the planning picture today.

We concede that signs are important and necessary and we also agree that there must be rigid controls.

There will be exceptions from time to time. And we think the ordinance should allow for these exceptions as it does now. The merit of the case should decide the exceptions.

For example, the question of whether the recently approved "Gold Key" sign on Hamilton Ave. meets the city standards is a matter of opinion. This was illustrated by the divided vote of the City Council in granting the approval.

Still there are certain basic conditions that must be met by any applicant who desires a sign.

And we believe also that the signs must "fit" into the area.

And, we also believe, that good landscaping is even more important to a community.

We maintain that when it comes to trees versus signs, we will pick the trees.

ANOTHER ONE OF OUR calls recently was from a woman reader who commented on our editorial about "Yield" signs.

Editorially we had suggested that the "yield" signs were not doing the job for which they were originally intended.

The editorial was written as a sort of aftermath to the accident that occurred at Grant and Second St. in which Councilman Rusty Hammer was seriously injured.

Rusty was proceeding north on Second when he was hit. There is a "yield" sign on Grant.

Anyway our caller reported that she had seen an ad for an insurance company in which a large "yield" sign was pictured with the words, "Yield means caution. It does not mean stop."

She thought the ad was misleading and the insurance company was doing a disservice with such a message.

We agree.

The vehicle code explains that "yield" means stop if you have to.

Our caller wondered how one would yield if one didn't stop.

That sorta sums it up.

Next question.

A STARTLING STATISTIC (to us anyway) was revealed to us recently by Tony Van Laarhoven, principal of Hazelwood School.

Tony reported that for the past six years, the transfers in and out of Hazelwood School have averaged 428 per year.

What makes that figure so unusual is that Hazelwood is located in a stable neighborhood where many families have lived for a number of years in the same homes and their kids have gone through all the grades.

And the home and school club is one of the most active in the district.

But there is a group of apartments just a short distance away also.

And that's the key.

There is, of course, considerable paperwork involved in these transfers but that is definitely not the point of Tony's concern.

It's horribly unfair to the youngster involved, Tony pointed out, to be pulled out and pushed into so many different schools in one year.

Some kids have been in as many as 11 schools in one year.

We understand that Rosemary is another school where the "transfers" are out of proportion.

The enrollment of Hazelwood is slightly more than 800, one of the largest in the district. Figure it out.

The "stable" enrollment at Hazelwood is probably as high as any other school in the district.

That makes those "transfer" figures even more acute.

Of course, we don't know what to do about it.

Do you?

A HOME WITHOUT A phone in this country is unusual to say the least.

But that is not true in many other countries of the world.

Just recently, for example, the brother of Charmaine Paul, wife of Councilman Norm Paul, had a phone installed in his home.

Charmaine's brother lives in Germany.

So what happens.

He naturally called his sister in the United States.

The problem was that Charmaine was not at home at the time.

Without Charmaine, the German-speaking group in the Paul household is down to zero, Norm reports.

Paul said that the trans-Atlantic phone conversation was quite unsatisfactory.

Rick, who is taking German in school, was not yet ready for conversational German.

And Norm's side of his conversation with his brother-in-law was limited to a few "neins" with an occasional "ja".

They couldn't report much about it to Charmaine.

Except that her brother now has a phone.

THERE HAVE BEEN A number of mistakes recently in copy that we have turned out that neither Ruthie nor Erlene caught.

We are only reporting that because we are quite careless in our typing with those two gals on hand.

Most of the time we turn out these gems that you are reading pretty fast.

And often we don't even bother to read what we have written until it appears in print. We assume that Erlene and Ruth will take care of any errors. And most of the time they do.

But we have been making it tough on them lately. Not only does our typewriter need a new ribbon but keys need cleaning.

You would be surprised how many letters look the same when they are clogged up.

And some times it does make a difference whether an "a", "e", or "o" is used.

So clogged keys will have to go.

Have a good day.

The nurses also emphasized that under no conditions would the nurses "abandon their patients."

LONG SERVICE

Mrs. McGaw, the nursing director whose services were terminated last Friday after she had returned from her vacation, has been at the hospital since 1964.

She gave The Press the following statement: "I was terminated on Friday, Sept. 15, without notice. I have retained Mr. Salvatore Liccardo, as legal counsel, to represent me."

Mrs. Renna, the operating supervisor who has been at the hospital since it opened in 1963 and whose services were also terminated last Friday, made the following statement:

"I, Mrs. Evelyn Renna, R. N., operating room supervisor at Campbell Community Hospital would have had 10 years in service at the hospital on January 1973. I have been a relief operating room supervisor for seven years and operating room supervisor for 1½ years. I have previously withheld my identity to avoid influencing the other nurses.

"However, at this time by reason of numerous resignations of nurses of all levels and departments, I feel free to state that I was abruptly terminated for being concerned with the standards of patient care at Campbell Community Hospital.

"This concern has also been expressed by former chief of staff, Dr. Richard C. Rhodes, who has gone to the extent of commencing a law suit upon advice of legal counsel. I cannot specify further details at this particular time. However, I am confident that all the facts will be made known in due course.

"I can, however, state that this is not a labor dispute problem but is the sole concern for patient welfare."

INVESTIGATION

In a related matter, to add more to the confusion, inspectors from the State Department of Public Health have been on the scene allegedly to explore the various charges. No report has been made to date by the investigators.

It has been reported also that the business manager of the hospital, Mrs. Marie Martin, has submitted her resignation but will remain for four weeks. Mrs. Claudia Swenson, pharmacist, it has been reported has also given her two weeks notice.

Members of the hospital women's auxiliary who have long aided in the operation of the hospital on a voluntary basis have not made any announcement as to how they stand. However, the auxiliary is meeting this Thursday.

A spokesman for the nurses also pointed out that membership in the California Nurses Association has been mandatory for members of the nursing staff. It is quite possible, the spokesman said, that the association could enter the picture.

ogize for our predecessors who requested you put those trees along the front of the Center."

"I am sure they thought it would help the Center," the letter continues, "and they are beautiful. But they have turned out to be a detriment, and we who have money invested in this Shopping Center are battling against great odds with all the new Centers in this area, so we need that sign to be seen...."

The merchants have indicated also that the trees at the Methodist Church also obstruct the view because the church is located so close to the street.

They also suggest that they would like to transplant three of the eight they want removed about 125-feet inside the parking lot.

They maintain that many customers now fail to find the center and that the center is planning a new sign and they want very much for people to see it.

They offer to remove the trees themselves, if permission is granted.

In a memo to Bill Wren, public works director, from Frank Lewis, associate civil engineer on the staff, who was first contacted by the merchants, Lewis concluded: "I can appreciate the gentleman's problem, but I feel that the trees enhance the stark appearance of the existing center rather than causing a detriment."

property, the first step in the development of the property into a unique commercial and cultural center.

It was indicated that prior parking problems and the center's relationship to the proposed development to the planned south loop street apparently were resolved.

Approved also was the application of James H. Thomas for a variance from 60 to 50 feet to allow the construction of a duplex on property located at 72 N. Third St.

Approval was also given to relocate the existing pole sign for Sambo's restaurant at Campbell and San Tomas.

It was also ruled that a variance was not needed for Jack Britton, at 1150 Denver Drive, in the conversion of a garage because when the work was done, city ordinances did not require that a parking space be covered. It was emphasized, however, that the applicant must still satisfy the building department as to current code requirements.

Plans for a 14-unit apartment complex at 230 Rose Court were approved and three other matters (1) E.R. Nolen for a single-family residence at 313 Grant; (2) Leonard Borello for a commercial building at 2325 Winchester (3) Geneva McGeorge for a tool shed rental at 900 Dell were continued and (4) Vinod Kamboj for converting a residence to a business at 880 E. Campbell.

Requests for stop signs on Grant go to Council

Petitions requesting that stop signs be placed on Grant Ave., at First and Second streets will be submitted to the City Council next Monday, Sept. 25. Several accidents have occurred at those intersections in recent months.

City Manager Bob Stephens indicated also that it is hoped that the amended library agreement with the county will be before the Council for approval next Monday.

Members of the Youth Advisory Commission are also scheduled to be on hand next Monday to report on the proposed new ordinance that would modify the resolution establishing the commission.

The membership would be reduced and the functions more specifically outlined under the new ordinance that has been drafted to a large extent by Councilman Rusty Hammer, who was one of the original members of the youth group.

Approval of a work experience program that would allow the employment of one high school student as a clerk in the planning department is also being requested by the city manager.

The Council is also expected to approve the specifications for a sedan for the public works department and call for bids and to act on the request of Alan Bloomquist to operate a taxicab service, called Golden State Taxi Co., within the city limits. The two cab firms now authorized are protesting the application.

The Council is also slated to adopt a resolution commending Steve Barnett, a Campbell resident ~~who~~ was a member of the Olympic water polo team that won a bronze medal.

The Council on Monday plans to schedule the hearing on the general plan for Tuesday, August 3. At that time the comprehensive report of the Planning Commission will be submitted. The main purpose of the study made by the Planning Commission was to get the general plan to conform with the zoning as is required by a new state law.

During October, the City Council will meet on Tuesday, October 10, instead of Monday, October 9 and on Tuesday, October 24 instead of Monday, October 23, because of the respective holidays (Columbus Day and Veterans Day) that have been set for the Mondays.

Olympian to speak

Campbell Chamber of Commerce members will hold their fall kick-off luncheon on Thursday, September 28, with Steve Barnett, Campbell Olympic bronze medal winner, as guest speaker.

Barnett, who competed as a member of the United States Water Polo Team, will tell of his experiences in Munich and show slides of Olympic activities.

The luncheon will be held at Zorba's Restaurant at 12 noon. Reservations should be made with the CofC office, 378-6252.

Study assesses reading skills

The old argument that "Johnny can't read" because of overemphasis on "look-say" instead of the "phonics" approach to reading seems definitely passe' now.

A new look has entered the picture. It's the results of a reading survey by the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP), a project of the Educational Commission of the States, headquartered in Denver.

The assessment, recently tabulated, while it does not speak of reading approaches, catalogues things as they are. And they are:

Most young Americans read from 100 to 200 words per minute with a comprehension rate sufficient for them to function in everyday situations.

The general reading level in an assessment of reading speed and skills in age groups 9, 13, 17 and 26-35 in 1970-71 was higher than expected by the scholars who prepared the tests.

Such variables as age, sex, living area and parental education affected both reading speed and comprehension.

The median reading rate increased steadily through the 17-year-old level, dropping off slightly for the young adult group.

For all ages, only 5 to 10 per cent read more than 300 words per minute with almost none passing 750 words. (A 9-year-old scored 1,320 words per minute with 80 per cent comprehension.)

Of the reading skills tested ranging in difficulty from word meaning to "critical reading," the 9- and 13-year-olds had the most difficulty in identifying the major idea in a paragraph.

The 17-year-olds and the young adult group, reading identical passages, found drawing inferences from what they read most difficult.

The highest scores, generally, were made in day-to-day reading exercises, such as newspaper TV guides, a road map, directional signs, store labels and recipes and answering factual questions about them.

The National Assessment Newsletter on the survey noted that the "nearly 100,000 people who participated.. fared best on exercises which required them to read to gain factual information and less well on critical and interpretive reading."

His documentary films have been seen across the nation on the ABC television network, and his work is familiar worldwide to those interested in the sea.

The auditorium is located on the corner of Winchester Blvd. and Campbell Ave.

Political scene forum focus

This election year again brings into focus the American political system—its successes and its failures.

West Valley College's Community Services office will sponsor a four-week forum on this subject, "Politics '72: The People Vote", beginning Sept. 21.

On four consecutive Thursday evenings at 8 p.m. specialists in the political science field will discuss how political parties both hinder and help a representative democracy.

The major areas to be explored are: Political Parties and Our Elections, Sept. 21; The President and the Congress, Sept. 28; The Role of the State Legislator: Today and Tomorrow, Oct. 5; and Change and the Voter, Oct. 12.

Speakers during the four sessions include: Dr. Roy E. Young, professor of political science at California State University, San Jose; Dr. Karl A. Lamb, professor of politics at the University of California, Santa Cruz; William Bicker, assistant professor of political science and director of the state data program at the Institute of Governmental Studies, University of California, Berkeley; and Dr. Claire Dedrick, co-founder and executive director of the Peninsula Conservation Center and co-founder of the Save Our Bay Action Committee.

Mrs. Lilian Nerenberg, West Valley College political science instructor, is coordinating the program.

Registration and a small fee are required. Registration information may be obtained from Community Services, 44 E. Latimer Ave., Campbell, room L-26, telephone 379-1733, ext. 58.

Twilight service unites couple

Diane Yerkovich and Don Christianson were united in a twilight service at Santa Clara's Church of the Valley.

The bride chose a white gown with a high rise neckline and a full-length A-line skirt graced with cotton lace ruffles at the bottom.

She wore a floor-length mantilla headdress with cotton lace trim around the edges.

The bridal bouquet was of white carnations intermingled with leather fern and baby's breath.

Mrs. Sharon Clements, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor, wearing an orange chiffon gown with lace trim.

Bridesmaids for the ceremony were Mrs. Kay Buckley, sister of the bride, Mrs. Glane Unti and Mrs. Kathy Singletary.

Gil Martinez was best man, with Ron Goff, Paul Angelo, Dennis Sol and Larry Marconi serving as ushers.

Dr. C. Walker presided over the services, as Mrs. Barbara Simmons provided the organ music.

After the wedding, 170 people attended a reception held at the Elks Lodge in Los Gatos.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Yerkovich of 126 No. Second St. in Campbell. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norvald Strand of Santa Clara.

Diane is a graduate of Campbell High School from the class of 1968, and is presently employed at the San Jose Medical Center. Don graduated from Buchser High in 1963 and is presently employed with the San Jose Fire Department.

They plan to live in Boulder Creek, California.

Thank You...
but don't STOP now!

For the past few months, the Santa Clara County Transportation Commission and the Board of Supervisors has been asking what you think should be done about transportation.

Thousands of you have responded to our previous ads, articles, posters or interviews concerning the transit alternatives available.

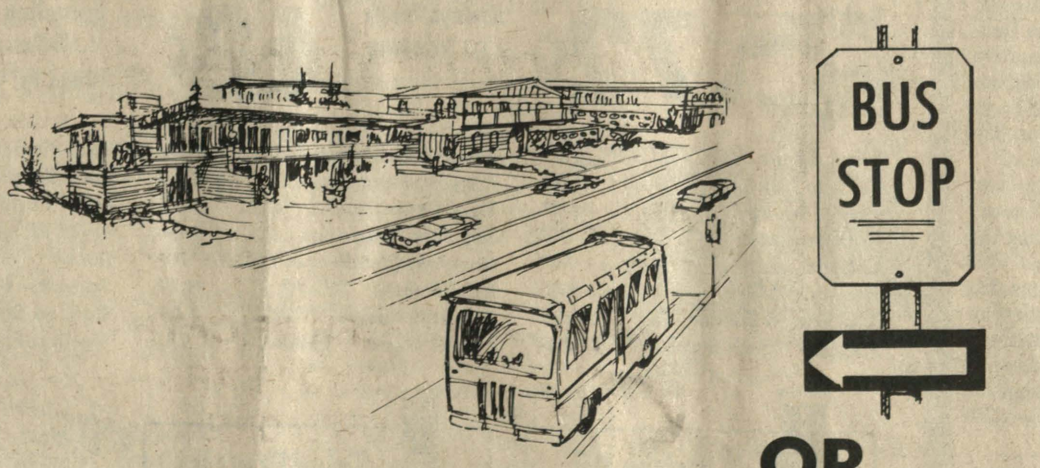
Thank you for your time and effort.

Suggestions were wide-ranging, but a significant majority felt that, in the long run, the entire Bay Area should be interconnected by a regional transit system (such as BART).

For a local transit and feeder system, opinion was split between buses and automated overhead lines.

So that we can concentrate on our local transportation needs, let's assume regional transit will come eventually. What should we use to move around the county now, while allowing for tie-ins with regional transit in the future?

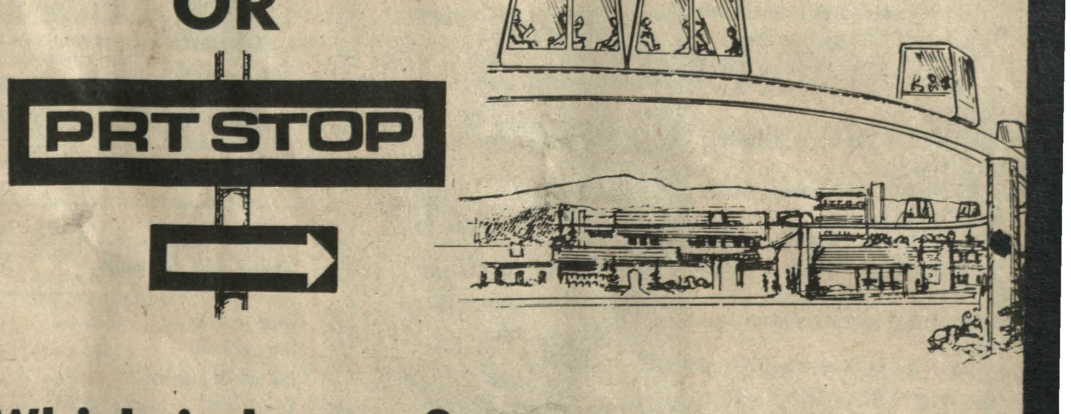
How do we solve local transit NOW?



PRT means Personal Rapid Transit. Man experts see it as the answer to the transp tion problem. (Naturally, other experts di agree.) Basically, it consists of many sma electric transit cars running on slim, elevate guideways. One-way lines would serve mo of the urbanized county area. Stops wou be about every half mile, so many peop could use the system conveniently.

OR

Buses would serve most of the county's local needs, and routes could be quickly altered to serve a regional transit system. A bus system would not require major special construction. Buses are flexible, come in all sizes, and can be made cleaner, quieter, and more comfortable.



Which is better?

Both Buses and PRT will tend to promote more of present low-density, single-family development. Corridors of medium density can be expected, however, along PRT lines and many bus routes. Bus Routes are more flexible. A bus system would cost less money, and can be started up now. But buses have a poor image, travel on congested city streets, and require high labor costs to operate.

PRT is more glamorous with its space-age technology, trave on its own grade-separated guideway, and its automatic contr lessen the need for high labor costs. On the other hand, P is a permanent fixed route, is more expensive to build, and w require more time to design and begin operations. No one rea knows for certain yet which is better for Santa Clara County.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Whether or not you agree that a future connection with BART is desirable, how should we solve our local transit needs? Think about it. Write to us.

- How would buses serve you best?
- How would PRT serve you best?

Dental ladies give day-long art show and wine tasting

BENEFIT SHOW---Mrs. Max Lettween, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Santa Clara County Dental Society, and Mrs. James Marino, chairman of antiques for the group, prepare for "Carousel d' Art," an art and antique show planned by the group for Friday, September 22 in the Serbian Hall at 18870 Allendale Ave. in Saratoga. The show is scheduled for 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the day, and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the evening.

Proceeds from the show are used to support the dental health education and service projects which are produced by the Auxiliary.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Santa Clara County Dental Society is sponsoring their annual fund raising event at the Serbian Hall, on Allendale Avenue this coming Friday.

Titled "Carousel d'Art" the day long event will feature art in action, selected antiques, a greenery display and art works. Following the 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. show, the hall will close until 7 p.m. when it will reopen with wine tasting and hors d'oeuvres.

The work of the dental auxiliary, 257 strong, includes the performance by volunteer members of two complete puppet shows. Each show is given twice monthly in some school in the county. An estimated 15,000 children see it annually.

Co-chairmen for the art show are Mrs. Thomas Giannetti and Mrs. Michael Parsons. Auxiliary president is Mrs. Max Lettween. For ticket information, call Mrs. Ramon Tappero, 268-4098. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Turtles can be dangerous!

The County Health Department has discovered a new menace for local residents.

Turtles, those adorable aquatic animals, have been isolated as carriers of Salmonella, a common food poisoning. The infection can produce stomach cramps, headaches, fever, chills and diarrhea.

According to reports, almost all small green commercial turtles are infected with the disease.

Fourteen cases of turtle-caused Salmonella were reported to the County Health Department in the first seven months of this year.

"The source of the problem is the water in which the mother turtle lays her eggs," says Mary Clark, M.D., deputy director of public health. "Most turtles here are from the Gulf of Mexico where raw sewage is dumped. This is the source of contamination."

According to Dr. Charles Clark, a County health educator, no dealer can guarantee that a turtle is Salmonella-free, since the importation of turtles is not under strict rules.

Dr. Clark maintains that a child should not be denied a turtle if he is old enough to remember a few basic health rules.

Hands should be washed after contact with turtles. Children should not put their hands in their mouths while they play with turtles. No food near the turtle's bowl should be eaten. Turtle bowl water should be changed frequently, preferably at a sink or basin where food is not prepared.

According to Dr. Clark, after six months in clean surroundings, most turtles will no longer transmit the disease.

DANGER---Would you believe that a cute little turtle could give four-year-old Mathew Wilson a case of Salmonella, a form of food poisoning? In this case, however, the danger is eliminated, as Mathew has been taught to wash his hands after handling the pet.

Bringing up fido

By Sally Howe

"Fido" enjoys spending his evenings in the television room with the family. Most of the time he lies quietly on the floor and is just content to know that everyone is around.

The other night though, he pricked up his ears and went rushing over to the set. "Columbo" was on and he'd just acquired a dog---a bassett hound---and the veterinarian was suggesting that he name the dog "Fido"...."a name I've never heard."

And, come to think of it, neither have we. The tv vet said something about the word meaning "faithful-friend."

It's kind of nice to know your dog loves and honors you above others. And if he doesn't, have you given much thought to why he prefers someone else?

Usually he doesn't, but just like a mischievious kid, he's not beneath showing off for someone else, especially if he thinks he is "getting" to you. But that truly doesn't mean he loves someone else best --- if you don't believe it --- try leaving him at a kennel for a couple of days and see how glad he is to see you when you retrieve him!

A dog that is well behaved in the car is a joy to take places --- but a barker, who runs from window to window is a plain old nuisance! Early training is very important and if done properly, will set the pattern for later behavior. First of all, don't take a dog loose in the car when it is a puppy unless there is a passenger to control it. No way can you drive and discipline at the same time. What usually happens is that the driver ends up with the dog in his lap --- the most dangerous way to drive!

A dog should sit quietly on the seat or lie on the floor --- there is no other place suitable. A dog should never be allowed to hang his head out the window when an auto is moving --- in fact, should not have his head out anytime. It's too easy for him to wiggle out when the car isn't moving and too likely for him to get dirt in his eyes and ears when the car IS moving. Really, you wouldn't let a youngster ride that way, would you? Besides, he really is NOT that hot!

Fly bites are still a problem to dog owners, even though the hot summer seems to have waned. There are medicated shampoos which discourage the pesky animals and there also are sticks and sprays to use --- primarily on the ear area. Older dogs are particularly susceptible to this kind of plague....reward their years of faithful friendship with a little extra care.

ROCK SHOW

A display of gems, minerals, jewelry and artifacts will be displayed by the Campbell Gem and Mineral Guild on October 14 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and October 15 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The display will be offered at the Alpine Park Hall, 2300 Canoas Garden Ave. in San Jose. A 50¢ donation is requested, and children under 12 with an adult are admitted free.

Door prizes, a wheel of fortune, rock swaps and snack will add to the excitement and pleasure of the show.

AHEAD

The San Joaquin Valley is said to be the most mechanized agricultural area in the United States.

County supports pet clinic at reduced cost

County residents who want to have their cat or dog altered can now buy a certificate for the operation from the Animal Control Division of the County Health Department.

The pet owner can then make arrangements for the operation at the Crocker Memorial Animal Hospital and pay with the certificate.

Certificates cost $20 for female dogs and cats, $10 for male cats and $15 for male dogs.

The service has come about as a result of an agreement between the county Board of Supervisors and the private animal hospital. The program is designed to reduce the number of the county's unwanted dogs and cats at a low cost to pet owners.

The Crocker Memorial Hospital is a new facility designed for emergencies and surgery with a full time veterinarian to handle the operations. One hospital official estimated that up to 40 operations per day could be performed, although no one is sure what the public response will be.

The hospital official said that most veterinarians will be happy to have pet alterations done by the clinic since the typical veterinarian is not set up to do them profitably.

Free distemper and hepatitis vaccinations for dogs and distemper vaccinations for cats will be given to pets who have not been vaccinated within two years.

To be eligible for the services the animal must be at least four months old and dogs must be licensed and vaccinated against rabies. Female pets must not be pregnant, nursing or in heat. In addition, the veterinarian may disqualify an animal in poor physical condition.

County Animal Control Program Chief Neal Bohnet estimated that there are probably close to a quarter million dogs in the county and an undetermined number of cats with the problem of controlling the animal population becoming more difficult each year.

Bohnet said response to a spay-neuter clinic run by the City of Los Angeles is so great that there is a three month waiting period.

Many advantages to the pet owner once the animal has been spayed have been cited by the program Chief. "It not only prevents unwanted kittens and puppies, but it also eliminates the attraction of unwanted males, reduces animal bites and the number of animal fights, and lessens the possibility of infection in the reproduction organs. In general, it just makes for a better pet. Best of all it will help to eliminate the need to dispose of unwanted animals."

Animal Control offices, located at 800 Thornton Way (west of Valley Medical Center on the corner of Thornton and Clove Dr.), are open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The telephone number for the clinic is 286-3016.

NOTICE OF FILING APPLICATION FOR INCREASES FOR INTRASTATE TELEPHONE RATES

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company on September 15, 1972, filed with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California an application for authority to increase certain intrastate rates and charges applicable to telephone service furnished within the state of California. In general terms, the proposed increases are as follows:

Basic exchange rates would be increased for both residence and business telephone service. For residence the monthly increase would be from $1.05 to $1.70 per main telephone, except for one-party 30 message service, where an increase of $.75 is proposed with no change in the message allowance. An increase from $1.95 to $6.00 is proposed per main business telephone. Foreign exchange service rates and PBX trunk rates would be increased generally in the same proportion as main station rates.

The message unit charge for multi-message unit messages would be increased from $.045 to $.06 per unit. Foreign exchange service message unit charges would increase from $.05 to $.06.

It is proposed to introduce a new timing measurement plan for exchange messages placed from message rate telephones. The local message charge would be one exchange message unit, $.06, for each five minutes of usage.

For intrastate message toll telephone service, it is proposed to introduce a one minute initial period day schedule for customer dialed calls. Increases are proposed in operator handled station and person rates. A separate schedule will be established for coin calls.

Wide Area Telephone Service rates would be changed and separate schedules would be established for inward and outward service.

Service connection charges would increase for new and additional service, moves of customer's telephone sets, certain changes of customer's sets and key telephone system services, and in place connection charges. The charge for initial connection of a residence telephone would be increased from $15.00 to $25.00. The business charge would increase from $25.00 to $35.00.

Private Line rates and charges would be increased and the existing 5% surcharge discontinued.

Certain rates and charges would be increased for COM PAK, Multiple Line Key Cabinet and Key Cabinet Service.

Private Branch Exchange and Emergency Reporting Telephone Service rates would be increased for attendant positions and also for order receiving equipment.

CENTREX and Airport Intercommunicating Service rates would be increased.

Telephone Answering Service cord operated position rates would be increased.

Increases are proposed for Optional Residence Telephone Service.

It is proposed to introduce a plan to selectively eliminate certain message unit and toll routes in order to create more uniform local calling areas.

Certain miscellaneous and supplemental equipment rates would be increased.

The rates proposed in the full application are estimated to produce additional annual gross revenue of $328,000,000 above present rate levels.

As part of its full application the company seeks interim rates, which it requests be put in effect subject to refund, as soon as possible and before hearings are completed on the full application. In general terms, the proposed interim increases are as follows:

Residence basic rate increases would be $.95 to $1.05 per main telephone per month except for one-party 30 message service which would increase $.55 with no change in the message allowance.

Business basic rate increases would range from $1.10 to $1.65 per main telephone.

Message unit and exchange message charges for measured service would be increased from $.045 to $.049 (other than foreign exchange and coin).

Key equipment station rates and installation charges would be changed for COM PAK services.

The interim rates proposed are estimated to produce additional annual gross revenue of $103,300,000 above present rate levels.

Hearings on the full application and hearings on the interim increases will be set at a later date. Notice of such hearings will be published not less than five nor more than thirty days prior to the initial hearing.

The Company's proposed rates would become effective in various California counties and municipal corporations, including the County of Santa Clara and the City of Campbell upon grant of authority therefore by the California Public Utilities Commission.

A copy of the application may be inspected by any interested person in the office of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company at 1550 Leigh Avenue, San Jose, California and in the offices of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California, Fifth Floor, State Building, Civic Center, San Francisco, California, and State Building, 107 South Broadway, Los Angeles, California.

UNUSUAL SECOND CHANCE FOR YOUNG OFFENDERS

Center seeks a better way

TIE-DYING---Teachers at Del Valle Center are forced to continually think up activities for their charges. This youngster was taken with tie-dying.

CRAFTS---Boys at Del Valle Center found that leather working was pleasurable.

The long-time practice of dealing with a youngster who has started on a career of minor offenses by sending him to a county "ranch" may be coming to an end.

Santa Clara County is now attempting to deal with the so-called "polluting" factors which surround the offender by guiding the youngsters to a facility called Del Valle Day Care Center, located at 1380 Olympia, Campbell.

Operated by the county's Juvenile Probation Department, the center attempts to turn kids back on to school, family and society.

In fact, were it not for this center, 55 per cent of these young men and women would be living at one of the local ranches, while another 35 per cent would be in private institutions. Ten per cent would be housed in foster homes, says Robert Carroll, the center's director.

The co-ed program is still in the experimental stage, but presently is a blend of teaching, counseling and probational supervision. The center leases its facilities from the Valley Neighborhood Church for weekday use.

Only those youngsters whose offenses are of a lesser nature are eligible for participation in the program. According to Carroll, any youngster who is enrolled is one "I wouldn't be afraid to have live next door to me."

The teens are at the center for four months before returning to their regular school. While at the school, they have opportunities to gain work experience, enjoy cultural activities and take field trips.

For instance, the telephone company has allowed boys to go out on the job with installers and girls have visited the toll operator and directory assistance offices. Some local gas stations made work experience jobs available also.

Currently the maximum enrollment for the school is 24. Eventually it is hoped that some 72 youngsters will be involved annually.

The center operates on the premise that positive rather than negative reinforcement is a better behavior modifier. This action enhances the individual's self-concept by praising his accomplishments rather than punishing him for his failures.

The school's staff is comprised of three teachers, four probation officers, two male and two female officers, and one counselor. They act as a team instead of as individual teachers as they work to solve each student's problems, according to Carroll. This includes staff meetings to evaluate the program's effectiveness and each student's progress.

Carroll is a graduate of San Jose State's Police School where he received his master's degree in Corrections. He was a Palo Alto policeman for three years. Recently, he acted as a supervisor of a state funded intensive probation unit.

The curriculum at the center is unlike most high schools, not only are the classes small (five to eight students) but the teachers make every effort to utilize teaching techniques and materials different from the traditional methods that the students have been accustomed to.

Full high school credit is granted for work done at the center. The program includes group and individual counseling on a daily basis. No student is accepted who has an IQ of under 75 or lower than a fourth grade reading level.

Each Saturday the staff takes the teens out somewhere for cultural activities which have included a trip to Angel Island, a classical music concert and an excursion to the beach. These activities are unique experiences to these kids because many of them have never been out of the San Jose area before.

The students also take field trips during school hours to places that have educational applications. The staff tries to arrange at least one field trip a week.

The $275,000 program receives $165,000 of its funding from the California Council on Criminal Justice and County matching funds of $110,000.

CANDLE-CRAFT --- Special talents and skills are encouraged at Del Valle Center where these students learn the ancient art of candle making.

RECREATION---So that the program at Del Valle Center does not become "all work and no play", staff members at the school arranged to "borrow" the use of a swimming pool for their students.

The Famous Harry James

The Famous Harry James Orchestra

Harry James is one of the most famous and most dedicated musicians in the world -- yet, he'd trade his trumpet for a baseball glove or golf club any day of the week! People who meet Harry James for the first time are amazed to find a fluent, knowledgeable, athletic-type man who is well-versed in many subjects. When Harry speaks, he has something to say -- and everybody listens. When he raises his trumpet and displays a rare virtuosity -- everybody listens -- all over the world.

Benny Goodman, an ardent record fan, happened to catch Harry's sweet horn one night on a Ben Pollack recording. Goodman immediately investigated, discovered that the trumpet was being tooted by a young man named Harry James, and before Harry knew what had happened, he was playing with the great Goodman band. The record that Goodman liked so much was "Deep Elm", which has always been in the Music Makers' repertoire.

In 1939, Harry decided to go out on his own, and Goodman thought enough of his chances to back James with the money to get started. It was thus at the age of 23 that Harry James came to lead his own band, and it was thus that Harry James and the Music Makers came into being.

Once Harry caught on with the public, his popularity knew no bounds. From 1941 to 1943, he was catapulted to fame to such an extent that when, in the Spring of 1942, he made an appearance at the Paramount Theatre in New York, the resultant traffic jams and riots brought front-page stories to Harry James and his Music Makers in all the newspapers -- even the conservative New York Times. The crowds started to appear every day at the Paramount at 1:00 AM, and by 8:00 o'clock, special policemen had to be called in to handle the thousands of jiving youngsters swarming the sidewalks and holding up traffic in Times Square.

His television series debut has been postponed many times during recent years in order that Harry James, his trumpet and his Swingin' Band could fill the much-requested engagements in many parts of the world where, just as in the U.S.A. -- Harry James is a legend -- an active trumpeter -- as American as baseball and the hot dog - and "You made me Love You".

The Fabulous Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra Directed by Lee Castle

One of the proudest Jimmy Dorsey accomplishments was the sale of more than forty million Jimmy Dorsey phonograph records. Many recording men credit him with the success and establishment of the Juke box industry. Whether by coincidence or as a result of his efforts, juke boxes came into widespread popularity at the time when Dorsey emerged as one of the nation's leading record sellers. His "John Silver" was one of the first million sales recording.

Jimmy's place in the hierarchy of American musical greats is assured by his legion of fans who were devoted to the music of the man "Who painted for the ear with instruments".

Jimmy's all-time best selling: Green Eyes - The Breeze and I - Amapola - Maria Elena - Yours - Six Lessons From Madame Lazonga - Always in My Heart - Brazil - All of Me.- Blue Champagne - Manhattan - Besame Mucho - Lover - I Understand - Oh, What A Beautiful Morning - Tangerine - Major and Miner Stomp - Dolamite - By Neck - Charlie My Boy - Contrasts - Sweet Georgia Brown.

Lee Castle Directing the Fabulous Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra

It has long been established that if and when someone had to get up and lead a Dorsey band (who was not named Dorsey) that someone would be Lee Castle. For Lee, one of the best trumpet-players in the country, has been more than just a member of the Dorsey band for many years; he has been considered the "third son" of the Dorsey family.

Lee had played with the better-known bands of the day, such as Artie Shaw, Glenn Miller and Tommy Dorsey. Dorsey immediately noticed the potential talent that Castle possessed and insisted that he leave Pennsylvania to study with Mr. Dorsey, Senior. Lee spent a great deal of the next few years studying under the Dorsey name and became so popular with the family that they adopted him as their "third son".

Finally, the call came from the Dorsey boys once again to join forces. Tommy and Lee both disbanded their organizations and joined Jimmy to create the new group to be known as the "FABULOUS DORSEY ORCHESTRA." Lee became musical conductor and featured trumpeter for the group.

HI MOM -- Comedian Jerry Van Dyke introduces his kids to their Grandmother. The gag is that the Porter car was Jerry's co-star in the TV series "My Mother The Car." The reunion between the stars took place at the Santa Clara County Fair where Jerry headlined the stage show and the car was part of the Custom Car Show presented by Bob Barkhimer and Associates.

DARTING AROUND

with Tom Carroll

A reunion of old friends took place at the Santa Clara County Fair. Stage show headliner Jerry Van Dyke was reintroduced to the car that was used in his TV series "My Mother the Car." The car was part of the Custom Car Show presented by Bob Barkhimer and Associates.

The meeting took place on the track behind the portable stage at the Fairgrounds. Jerry was very much surprised to see the vehicle and told several anecdotes to San Jose Speedway starter Paul Bender and other interested onlookers.

Jerry said it had been very hard to start the car when they were on location shooting the series. Paul told Jerry that the present owner, a San Carlos man, had done quite a bit of work on the engine. He started it with the first flick of the key.

The car has a Corvette engine under the hood and Paul drove it to the Fair from San Carlos. It was also used to transport the Race Queen for the trophy dash presentations on the two nights of BCRA midget racing at the Fair.

CYCLE CARNIVAL

Paul Bender is also the producer of "Cycle Carnival" a custom motorcycle show to be held in the Pavilion Building of the Santa Clara County Fairgrounds, Nov. 10-12. Besides Barkhimer and Associates others involved are cycle dealers Ed Green of Napa and Art Himsl of Concord.

Entries are being accepted now in seven categories: Domestic, European import, Asian import, three-wheeler, antique, competition and full dress.

Another event coming up on the Barkhimer calendar is the Cavalcade of Auto Racing, Sunday, Oct. 1. Four 100 lap main events will be held in four different classes of auto racing. There will be a race for the NASCAR Super Modifieds that normally run at San Jose Speedway but also on the bill will be the BCRA midgets, NARC sprint cars and HASCAR sportsman division.

CAMPBELL FLASH

The Campbell Flash, Howard Kaeding, lost his point lead for the state NASCAR super Modified Championships last week but regained it Sunday in the race at Madera.

His close competition, Everett Edlund of Caruthers, finished fourth to Kaeding's 13th, Saturday at San Jose Speedway. The order was reversed Sunday at Madera with Kaeding coming in fifth to Edlund's 11th. It looks like it will be a battle right down to the wire.

GRAND NATIONAL

The San Francisco Cow Palace is getting ready for the Grand National, Oct. 27 through Nov. 5. One of the events scheduled is a "Littlest Cowboy" contest on Saturday, Oct. 14. Boys and girls, 3 to 10 years old are eligible to enter.

Prizes will be awarded to the best dressed cowboy and cowgirl and to the tallest, shortest and most freckled entries. Special awards will be presented to the most authentically dressed cowboy and cowgirl.

Parents may enter their children in the contest by writing to Contest Manager, Cow Palace, P.O. Box 34206, San Francisco, 94134. Entry deadline is midnight, Wednesday, Oct. 11.

Peponis entered at car show

by Tom Carroll

A street hot rod pickup has been entered in the second annual National Custom Motorcycle and Car show this weekend at the Oakland Coliseum by William Peponis of Campbell. The 30 year old mechanic of 2409 San Tomas Aquino is one of 12 Santa Clara Valley entrants competing against more than 150 hand-crafted vehicles in the show.

Customized motorcycles, hot rods, sports cars and other unique vehicles will vie in 40 classes for awards presented at closing ceremonies Sunday night.

Doors at the Coliseum's Exhibit Hall will be open from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 1 to 10 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday, according to show producer Al Slonaker.

Highlighted will be Ron Ebert's $12,500 "Two Cycle," a brand new dual engine three-wheeler from Carmichael, and Larry Marshall's "Longshot," a futuristic $6,000 two-wheeler from Sacramento that is 14 feet long.

Out-of-state entries include Johnny La Voie's Las Vegas "glamour sedan" embellished with an Italian aquatic scene, W. Al Hueschkel's trophy-winning customized BSA Spitfire from Lynwood, Wash. and Paul Alves' unique custom street chopper from Reno.

Novel entries include Roy "Butch" Patrick's $4,000 "mower-cycle" from Vacaville, a three-wheeler built from a reel-type lawn mower; Mrs. Shirley Watson's $5,000 Castro Valley touring rod phaeton, and Kenneth Krohncke's hand-built sports coupe from San Jose which took six years to create.

Designed to display the latest customizing innovations, the show is an auxiliary to the National Roadster Show held each February.

Dacuyan to be v.p. at Monroe

Campbell Union School District trustees appointed Hank Dacuyan vice-principal of Monroe School at last Thursday's board meeting.

Dacuyan, 40, has served as a teacher in the Campbell district since 1959, initially as a fifth grade teacher at Quito and then at Moorpark Elementary School. In 1968 he moved to a sixth grade classroom at Moorpark and then in 1970 transferred to his present school as an upper grade teacher.

HANK DACUYAN

His services to the district were interrupted during the '62 and '63 school years when he taught a sixth grade class in the Winton Elementary District of Merced County.

Dacuyan has also served as the district's recreation director for the past four summers.

West Valley Sports

by Dick Sparrer

"HANDS FULL" AT SJCC

"We have to stop Gonzales," said West Valley College head football coach John Nicholas looking ahead to Saturday night's game at San Jose City College at 7:30 p.m. The statement came soon after the Vikings clipped back the wings of the Foothill Owls 38-0 in their 1972 season opener.

The Vikings have quarterback Joe Alvarez (Campbell) who has shown he has what it takes and more to play behind the center in junior college ball. And Mike Jones (Westmont), Sam LoBoe (Campbell) and Gary Harris (Camden) provide better than average hands for Alvarez offerings.

West Valley burst into 1972 in grand style last week at Foothill, showing both a powerful offense and a stingy defense, winning 38-0.

"We were pleased with our overall defensive performance," said the coach. "The defensive backs just played super." Nicholas singled out linebacker Steve Cobler (Leigh), defensive end Doug Gerdwagon (Leigh) and back Vic Bennett (Buchser) for tough efforts on the "D" side.

Supporting the play of the quarterback and receivers on the offense were linemen Gary Mrdutt (Leigh) and Doug Allen (Los Gatos). The coach singled out back-up quarterback Rick Mallman (Prospect) for a fine effort.

POLOISTS EXPERIENCED

"Compared to last year's team, we're 100 per cent more experienced this season," said West Valley College water-polo coach Gene Nyquist as he looks ahead to the 1972 campaign in the WVC pool.

The Vikes have a fine crop of freshmen to go along with a talented pair of lettermen who could lead the orange and blue mermen to glory in '72.

Greg Trapp and Jerry Positeri are both Vike lettermen who will lead the 1972 attack. Freshmen Mike Coffee, Kevin Carver and Raul Navarro are all products of Buchser and Mark Lord hails from Wilcox.

Tom Riley, an all-American swimmer last spring at WVC and Don Vierra are both working in the goal.

Steve McFarland, Cliff Mohr, a letterman, Paul Hendrickson and Bill Albertson all should be counted on heavily by the Vikes this season.

The 1972 season for West Valley will open this week when they host Chabot Thursday, Sept. 21, at 3:30 p.m. at their Saratoga pool. Friday and Saturday they will compete in the Cabrillo Tournament.

HOOSAY GOAL TOPS UOP

A 1-0 victory over the University of Pacific got the West Valley College soccermen off to an impressive start last Saturday as they opened play for 1972.

The Vikings, behind a fourth quarter goal by Guy Hoosay, pulled out the 1-0 victory over the tough four year school.

The Vikes will concentrate on two year schools this week as they host Alameda Tuesday at 3 p.m. and visit Marin Friday.

Saturday it will be back to the four year level when West Valley meets the San Jose State University junior varsity in an 8 p.m. battle in Spartan Stadium.

TOP CAGERS AT WVC

West Valley College basketball coach El Brown recently announced that two area prep standouts are currently enrolled in school and plan to play for the 1972-73 Viking cagers.

A 6'2" guard, Jody Desin will wear Viking orange and blue this winter and handle backcourt duties with all-league second team returner Rick Hile. Desin played for both Leigh and Leland High Schools and Hile is a product of Mitty.

A Hile teammate at Mitty, Tim Walsh will join WVC after a year of frosh ball at the University of Portland. Walsh is a 6'8" center.

HARRIERS BEGIN

Sophomore Mike Schaecher and two first year Vikings will lead the West Valley College cross countrymen into action Friday when they open competition against other schools in 1972.

The Vikes will take part in the Stinson Beach run Friday at 3:30 p.m. against the likes of San Mateo, El Camino and Fresno, among others.

PASS AWAY---Firing over the San Mateo defense in a pre-season scrimmage is Joe Alvarez of West Valley College. The Campbell High School product had a great game in the Vikings season opener last Saturday night as he completed 13 of 20 passes for 228 yards and three touchdowns in WVC's 38-0 win over Foothill. The Vikes will be looking to turn their one win into a two game streak Saturday when they visit San Jose City College for a 7:30 p.m. game.

ANTIQUE SALE

Antique Club will hold their semi-annual sale of antiques, gifts, collectibles and junk Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 23 and 24, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 470 Union Avenue, Campbell.

CASOLS WELCOMES

Casols, a school for children with learning problems, announces they will hold an open house on Monday, Sept. 25, at their school at Ferris and Spender in Los Gatos at 7 p.m. Visitors are welcome.

BREAKFAST

Orchard City Grange will serve breakfast at their hall, 109 N. First St., on Sunday, Sept. 24 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The public is invited.

County agency has unique function of getting answers

Finding people to answer questions and solve problems is the unique function of Santa Clara County's Information and Referral System, (I&R), 277 W. Hedding St., San Jose. The service does not act directly to serve clients, individuals or agencies, but rather, it refers them to people who are capable of solving the problems.

The I&R System operates from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Charles Quinn, director of the program, explained that the service operates as a referral center as well as a counseling center.

"Any call that comes through here gets an answer one way or another, no one goes unanswered," said Quinn.

Direct referrals are made when the individual or agency has a single problem that is well defined. When an individual has a complex problem, that he cannot easily define, a counselor constructs a plan of action for the client to take as well as defining the problem for him. The counselor works closely with the client until his needs are on the way to being met.

The information system includes the Model Cities unit, the La Raza Resources Mobilization unit, and The Senior Citizens Outreach I&R of the Community Service Organization.

The main office on Hedding Street already has 900 resources indexed in its files. Quinn explained that these are updated monthly, making sure that all the data is correct for each reference. As part of the effort to expand the files the receptionist reads the newspapers daily and clips any article on new services available throughout the county.

Each new service is then researched thoroughly to study its scope and the types of services provided.

Quinn said that the staff received four months training when the program began, and they received additional inservice training weekly. The training which has been discontinued for the summer included community orientation and familiarization with the clients' needs.

Each referral that is made is carefully followed up to see the effectiveness of the reference.

A daily log is kept by the receptionist. The log includes the name of the caller. if available, the type of information given, the person who answered the call and the agency or information requested. The log keeps an accurate record of the work handled as well as a record of the needs of the community.

When needs are repeatedly unanswered, the center makes recommendations to County agencies for new programs or the updating of existing programs.

"The clients' biggest problems seem to be ones of transportation, housing, employment, food and medical care," according to Quinn.

Currently, I&R is studying the possibility of extending its operations to meet afterhour needs. Quinn said that they are currently attempting to define those needs to find what services should be made available after hours.

The unified I&R is a project of the County of Santa Clara and the San Jose Model Cities Agency. Funding for the program consists of $16,000 from Model Cities and matching funds through Title 4-A sources of the federal government. The County and City of San Jose also contribute funds.

The system is directed by the Social Planning Council, an agency of United Fund.

The program evolved as the result of a 10 month survey as to the need of an information system. The survey was directed by the Social Planning Council, with the assistance of the County Administration, the County Social Services Department and community leaders.

The study resulted from a complaint by Dist. Atty. Louis Bergna. He told the Board of Supervisors that police and other agencies were being swamped with calls for information on where to find emergency social services.

Letters to the Editor

SAVE THE TREE

Editor-

This is to bring to your attention that a beautiful tree located on Winchester Avenue on Methodist Church property is threatened because it covers a NEW sign that the Campbell Shopping Center is erecting.

As a member of the community, and of the Methodist church, I object strongly to this action. The sacrifice of a tree is a very serious matter, and the reason for this one is completely trivial – NO sign is more important than a TREE!!

Perhaps with your influence, you can arouse some public action that will save another of our beautiful – and sorely needed trees, but act FAST!!!

Sincerely
Marian E. Johnson

PHONE RATES

Dear George:

Because of the interest of the public in the current telephone rate case, I have listed three most often asked questions pertaining to the problem with their answers.

I think your readers might be interested in the rate situation.

Q - Why did we have to refund over $160 million?

A - Sufficient hearings were not held by the Public Utilities Commission on an accounting procedure. The court felt sufficient evidence was not submitted. This resulted in our current refund starting in October.

Q - Why are we asking for $103 million "interim" increase?

A - Rate cases before the PUC take approximately two years to be decided. This "regulatory lag" causes great economic problems and internal operational difficulties. Since we believe this case will not be decided until late 1974 and our rates have been reduced to levels in the 60's, we therefore want an interim increase to return to our levels of May, 1972 ($5.75 per month for resident flat service) until the main portion of our rate case is decided.

Q - Why ask for $225 million increase (Total of $328 million–including interim)?

A - 1. We are planning on revenue requirements for late 1974 and 1975. Our expenses, wages, construction costs, and growth requirement continue to increase. This must be met with increased revenue.

2. We wish to make needed improvements and modernization in Central Office Switching Equipment (E.S.S.), touch tone service state-wide, wider extended area service, ORTS (optional residence telephone service) in metropolitan areas, and internal cost saving equipment (T.S.P.S., C.D.T., etc.).

3. We need improved earnings to attract capital so that our construction program can be accelerated again. To attract funds to meet future service needs, we must improve our ability to borrow money (sell bonds) and increase our equity ratio (sell stock).

To sell more stock our earnings must increase so that investors will be attracted to our company. The average price in 1962 was $32.75 and in 1972 the price is approximately $16.50. Our dividend was $1.50 per share in 1962 and this has not increased in the last 10 years.

Simply stated: "You cannot meet increased demand for service without building; you cannot build without capital; you cannot raise needed capital without reasonable earnings."

4. Consumer Price Index has increased over 35% in the last 10 years while our rates have increased approximately 5%.

Foster homes needed

Mary is 14 years old and has never known the security of having a two-parent family. Now she needs a foster home.

Mary and her mother lived by themselves, so when her mother became ill Mary was put in a foster home. Then her foster mother also became ill and now she is in a temporary foster home.

Mary is very congenial and finds that making friends at school and at home comes easy for her.

Her hobbies are listening to music, sewing and she also loves to cook.

Mary craves affection and guidance, she needs responsible parents who will give her loving care.

Anyone interested in Mary or other kids like her are urged to contact the Foster Home Unit of Santa Clara County Social Services Department at 55 W. Younger Ave. or call Joan Beyrer, Foster Home Recruiter at 299-2981.
